STOWS AWAY ON TRANSPORT LEVIATHAN

FERNAND DORNIER

After the giant transport Leviathan left its port in France for America with thousands of returning American troops, a stowaway was discovered on board. It proved to be a youngster of fourteen, Fernand Dornier, formerly of Verrans, France and later the favorite of the American troops at Brest. The boy's father was killed in the fighting at Chateau-Thierry, and his mother, sister and brother were killed by a bomb from a Hun plane. Fernand was determined to come to America and smuggled aboard the transport. He is now in charge of the Children's Society in Jersey City, and efforts are being made to find a home for him.

Break Comes in Disposing of War Revenue Bill Amendments

The luxury tax section was estimated to raise about $185,000,000 and was the subject of sharp controversy. It imposed the 20 per cent rate on a variety of articles above fixed prices. International News Service is Restrained From Pirating News From Associated Press

Supreme Court of U. S. Holds That News is Property

(By Associated Press) Washington, Dec. 23.—Injunctions and orders of the federal court of New York restraining the International News Service from pirating and selling news gathered by the Associated Press were sustained today by the Supreme Court of the United States in a decision upholding every contention of the Associated Press. In addition to forbidding the pirating of Associated Press news from first editions of newspapers or from bulletin boards and the bribing of employees of Associated Press papers, the court disposed of contention of the defendant that the defendant was guilty of similar practices by finding that there was nothing in the proceedings to show that the Associated Press had unclean hands. The majority opinion was delivered by Associate Justice Pitney. On a vote of 5 to 3 associate Justice Holmes and McKenna joined in an associate opinion differing from some of the majority concerned and Associate Justice Brandeis dissented holding that there was no property rights in news and that the defendant had used the Associated Press news openly.

OUR PEACE ENVOYS ARE FIRST ONES DESIGNATED

(By Associated Press) Paris, December 23.—Almost on the eve of assembling of the peace congress delegates, the United States is the only country which has officially announced the composition of its delegation. Up to the present there has been no definite decision as to when the conference will hold its first session nor is it known how many delegates will represent each nation. The delay in arriving at an agreement of a date for beginning the conference may be explained by the fact that there has been no meeting thus far between the American and British delegations.

With exception of General Dickman, commander of the army of occupation, not even the officers at headquarters of the Third Army were aware of General Pershing's presence.

These probably will lay the chief ground work for the actual peace conference.

It now seems probable the work will be handled principally by the United States through Herbert C. Hoover, American food administrator.

"TECK" OUTLINES DEADLY WORK OF OHIO "WILDCATS"

Located at Thiel, Belgium, and Has Real Thanksgiving After Abundance of Genuine Warfare

Declares Ohio Boys Have Spread Fame of Buckeye State by Daring Deeds

Writing to The Herald, Private Mortimer W. Claggen tells of the hard work of the 37th Division of which he is a member, and many things which he has previously been unable to write because of the censorship. His letter follows:

Thiel, Belgium, Nov. 28. Thanksgiving Day, old timer, and for once in my young life I have caught the real essence of the occasion. Thankful am I, in truth, that I am alive and whole—a little more alive and whole than I have ever been. For the first time in my young life, I am seriously aware of something to be thankful for besides a holiday, a meal, a football game and a theatre. I am conscious of a gratitude that no stretch of the imagination can attribute to canned willie and hardback. Therefore, in genuine sincerity, I toast you to the greatest Thanksgiving in mine and the world's memory.

The unaccustomed freedom of a removed censorship is overwhelming. I have had the bit in my mouth for so long that I don't know how to go about running away. However, I think I'll do much better if I don't at all.

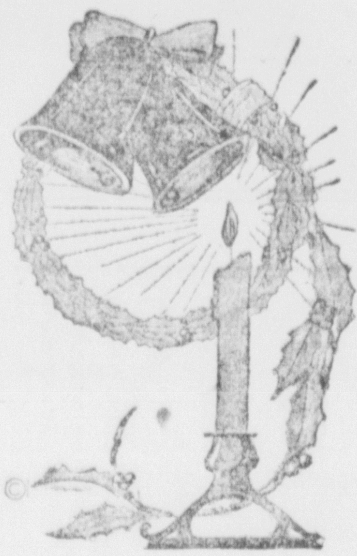

War stories are war stories, when you hear them, and I know they get pretty dull after a while. I'll try to touch a few high points for you in an effort to include a few things that may be of real interest.

As a start, let me add my assurance that you aren't alone when you mention that you are from Ohio. The boys have delivered, and not in full measure. What the Ohio contingent of the Rainbow Division has done is history. Of the 100,000 of us, I haven't very detailed information, but I know that they have had action, and I have come into contact with a number of those that were used as replacements in other divisions, and the greater part of these were taken into units that have seen some of the hardest fighting of the war.

As for the 37th, while it has been in Europe barely six months, it has had well nigh continuous action, and I doubt if the people at home even now are entirely ignorant of its work in the Argonne and in Flanders, in which latter field it was a warm tribute from the Commanding General of the 39th French Army Corps, with which it was operating at the time for its "brilliant conduct" in being "the first division to force a passage of the River Scheldt, one of the most desperately contested points in the western theatre." It has been accounted a first class unit since its entry into service and it has merited the distinction. As I look back on the life at Camp Sheridan, it is hard to believe that these Buckeye "wildcats" as the French have dubbed them, are the same lads that took Alabama society by storm and introduced the tea d'ansant to staid Montgomery.

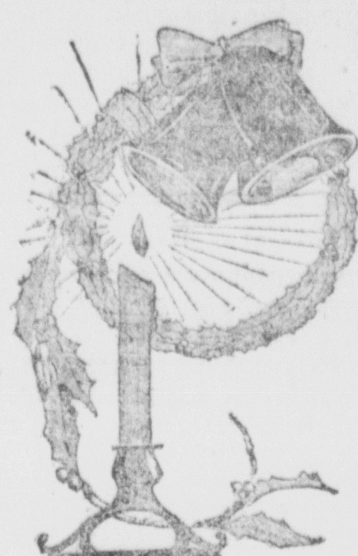

Personally, I have been attached to division headquarters during most of our service here and the hell of hand to hand battle has been outside my ken. But I've heard the shells whistle and burst, have sidestepped a few bombs and have witnessed quite a few of the darker features of the game. And I know whereof I speak when I say war is a rotten business. I've had enough of it to last a long, long time.

But at that, I wouldn't take a considerable fortune for the experience and impressions I have accumulated. Fortunately, our sea routing took us to Scotland. Many of the convoys landed in England and most of them went direct to France. We debarked at Glasgow, and the trip down thru England to Winchester, with fair weather and first class travel accommodations, I shall not soon forget, nor the hospitable reception given us by the people enroute. We stayed in England but two days, crossed the channel to Cherbourg, France, enroute the next day for the province of Haute Marne, in Eastern France, where we rested a few days within sound of the guns that blazed the way for the marines at Chateau-Thierry. We then moved over into the Vosges, taking over a sector near Toul, shortly after joining the units that cleared the Argonne. Following this, we did a short trick in the St. Mihiel neighborhood, and then recrossed France and came up into Belgium for our last big battle before the armistice.

I haven't yet been able to get to Paris, but I haven't given up hope. Twice I have skirted it and flirted with Eiffel Tower and the spires of Notre Dame. But I have drunk of the beauty of the illustrious city; I have looked with reverence upon the birthplace of the immortal Shakespeare; I have stood in awe before the celebrated institutions of Oxford; I have lounged in the environs that inspired the pen of Dumas; I have died a thousand deaths on the choppy English Channel; I have calculated the moats and towers of the invincible Conqueror, and I have realized why Quixote was adjudged insane. Furthermore, I have survived le grand guerre without a scratch. And that's something to be thankful for; with all due respect for the maimed heroes, I am unalterably of the opinion that a croix de guerre lends no sparkle to a glass eye, and I am positive that my good right leg becomes me better than a dozen D. S. C.'s

Being out of the territory of occupation, it seems not altogether impossible that we'll be on our way back to God's own country before many more moons. We've been in Thiel for some time. It's a quaint old town and the people are very kind and friendly, but it can't compare with Washington C. H.

As usual,

SEES NO DANGER OF GAS SHORTAGE

The Ohio Fuel Supply Company, from which this city derives its supply of natural gas is authority for the statement that there will be an adequate supply of natural gas for this city during the coming winter, and that local citizens should have no fear of the supply becoming low, except in severe weather, when the pressure is usually lower than under normal conditions.

This announcement is made by Manager Gross, of The Washington Gas and Electric Company, who declares that reported low pressure of gas in this city is due to some local trouble and not because the general pressure is not up to the standard. EMPLOYEES AND THEIR FAMILIES ARE ENTERTAINED

Week's Salary, War Savings Stamps and Insurance Policies Given Dahl-Campbell Employees and Treat to Members of Their Families During Evening of Enjoyment

A thoroughly delightful event of Saturday night was a social gathering of The Dahl-Campbell employees and their families to the number of 200 at the large and attractive club room of the firm.

The gathering was in the nature of a Christmas entertainment and get-together meeting, with the management of the big firm dispensing hospitality and Christmas cheer in the usual generous manner.

The club rooms were attractive in Christmas decorations everything possible was done to insure thorough enjoyment of the youngest and the old est.

After the guests had assembled they were ushered into the large ball room which was in semi-darkness, with a myriad of lights from a real

Christmas tree shedding their cheer abroad. Here words of greeting were delivered by Mr. W. M. Campbell, after which a musical program was presented under the direction of Mr. Walter Herron, with sleight of hand by Earl Binns, adding to the enjoyment. The musicians included Lloyd Herron, violin; Miss Lillian English, piano; Miss Ruth Davenport, mandolin and Hugh Perrill, drums.

After the very pleasing entertainment the management gave to each employee the new 1919 War Savings Stamps instead of the customary turkey, and to each employee who had been with the firm one year or more one week's salary was given. The employees who had been with the firm six months, an insurance policy with premium paid, was given. In addition to this a liberal treat of candy oranges, chewing gum, etc., was given to each member of the employees families. The Christmas tree proved a source of great delight to everyone, and particularly to the youngsters.

Following the program, the distribution of treats, the men withdrew to the front club rooms for cards and smoking, and the big ball room was turned over to dancing until a late hour.

The Dahl-Campbell Branch at Chillicothe on Monday distributed War Savings Stamps, a week's salary and insurance policies to employees on the same basis as in this city.

East Liverpool, Ohio.—"After an operation, I was weak, run-down, and slow to recuperate—I was advised to take Vinol, and the results were wonderful. I have a good appetite and sleep fine, I am always glad to tell anyone, what Vinol has done for me."—Joseph Weiser.

Exit VonEckhardt

The present German government, if such it may be called, has recalled Von Eckhardt, minister of the Kaiser's government in Mexico and one of the actors in the, Zimmerman hatched, Germany, Japan and Mexico, partition of the United States.

Von Eckhardt's recall marks the end of the infamous, but crude, propaganda which has been so powerful a factor in keeping alive and at fever heat, the anti-American sentiment in Mexico.

Much, if not all of the hostility with which the poor peons in Mexico regard the United States is directly attributable to German influence and German propaganda.

Annoying as the German propaganda agents made themselves in Mexico, however, during the war, final disclosures will reveal, we confidently believe, that less progress was made in the devilish work than in any other nation and that more valuable information was gained by the allied and associated governments as a result of the clumsy endeavors in Mexico than anywhere else.

Many secrets were taken from the sound waves about Mexico, secrets which the Hun representatives were guarding jealously and believed safely on their way to Berlin were intercepted by the United States officials and guaranteed the safe passage of many vessels loaded with troops or supplies and in the capture of many undersea pirate boats. German propaganda as conducted in Mexico was a valuable source of authentic information to the United States, but now even that element of worth has departed and its time for Von Eckhardt and his crew to take their departure. With their leaving the end of another disastrous Hun activity will have come.

The First Plunge

President Wilson is to be the guest, while in England, of King George and Queen Mary, in Buckingham Palace, occupying the guest suite which is maintained for the entertainment of visiting monarchs.

We Americans must accept that as all right though it does seem a little odd, a little against our democratic tastes to have our chief executive "hobnobbing" with the kings and royalty. Our first impression is one of hostility because of our deep-seated prejudices against royalty, and yet we would feel insulted if royalty would ignore our chief executive. We Americans wouldn't like it at all if King George would allow President Wilson to put up at one of the London taverns while the guest of Britain. The entertainment at Buckingham is the highest honor the English people can bestow on their distinguished guest and we must accept their way and look to the intent and not the form.

Our feelings regarding President Wilson's entertainment in London are a reminder of just how difficult it is going to be for us to forget our years of isolation, go out into the big world and neighbor with the other nations.

It is one thing to phrase the high ideals in beautiful and finely rounded sentences, but it is another and more difficult task to discard the customs of years and take up a new order of living among the nations.

In view of what seems to be our manifest destiny it is perhaps well that the President, in whose steadfastness to American ideals we have so much confidence and who is, by manner and mental equipment so eminently qualified, should take the first plunge—break the ice, so to speak.

Political Reforms

The present regrettable condition of politics—the political agitation—much of it without firmer basis than individual ambition or petty jealousy, is proof of the need for reforms and proof also, it seems, that until radical reforms come in the politics of the nation it would be ruinous for the government to retain, permanently, the control or to acquire the ownership of the railroads.

Until public servants can rise above the temptation to use so immense a machine, as the railroad systems would be in the possession of the government, for their own personal benefit or to further the interests of their political party and until politicians are prevented by hostile public opinion from charging their political opponents with all crime and mismanagement in public affairs regardless of the facts, government ownership of the railroads would result in nothing but political and industrial turmoil.

The whole gigantic organization would either become an auxiliary to political a party, an aid to some designing office holder who desired to perpetuate his hold on public affairs or, if administered conscientiously and free from political bias, the excuse for hurling all sorts of wild charges against the party in power.

POEM FOR TODAY

A HYMN OF PEACE.

Our enemies have fallen and the sword
 Of lust and tyranny is beaten down.
 Joyful, the nations shout with one accord
 And eager hands entwine the victor's crown.
 Lord, grant that in this hour we may be still
 In everything obedient to thy will.

The night was long and dark, and hard the way,
 But ever to the distant goal we pressed;
 Weary and faint, sore stricken in the fray,
 But never yet by craven fears distressed.
 We kept our living faith, undimmed and bright,
 In Thee, our glorious captain in the fight.

Thou gavest us heart, one mind, one soul,
 To battle nobly in a noble cause,
 To keep the very heart of freedom whole,
 And still uphold the high and sacred laws
 Of justice and of right on many a field,
 Trusting in Thee who wert our sword and shield.

Grant us to-day a spirit calm and strong,
 That in our hour of victory we may claim,
 Who spent our dearest blood to right the wrong,
 A triumph over every selfish aim.
 Lord God of Hosts, that bidst the conflict cease,
 Grant us that we be worthy of Thy peace.

WILSON VISITS WITH WOUNDED IN HOSPITALS

(By Associated Press)

Paris, December 22.—President Wilson today visited the Red Cross hospital at Neuilly, where he shook hands individually and talked with 100 badly-wounded Americans, for the most part survivors of the Chateau Thierry action. He spent more than four hours in the hospital, visiting every ward and stopping at every bedside. Later he visited the French hospital, Val De Grace.

Speaking of his experience at the American hospital the president said: "I went through the American hospital at Neuilly with the greatest interest and the greatest satisfaction. I found the men admirably taken care of and almost without exception in excellent spirits.

"Only a very few of them looked really ill, and I think that their mothers and their friends would have been entirely pleased by their surroundings and by the alert look in their eyes and the keen interest they took in everything around them.

"I am sure that they will go back to their loved ones at home with a new feeling of joy, alike in their recovery and in the fine service they have been able to render."

Four Hours Too Short

Going to the American hospital with the expectation of remaining an hour, the president found four hours all too short, and he felt that he could not leave without speaking to every man, and he expressed regret only at his inability to clasp the hand of every American soldier in France.

The president looked tired and worn when the ordeal was finished, for notwithstanding the cheerfulness of the men and the care which they were receiving there were many affecting cases in the wards.

When he came to one very badly-wounded the president sat on the edge of the cot for a moment and asked where he was from and how he had been wounded. He admired his war crosses and decorations. Noticing that many of his wounds were in the leg the president asked, "Why have we here no men wounded in the upper part of the body?"

"Men who are wounded above the waist are not here; they have gone on," answered the soldier simply.

One of the men the president came to stood proudly erect with medals on his blouse and one arm out stretched in an appliance for restoring its usefulness. He looked suggestively like a traffic policeman on duty.

"I'm glad to see you look so cheerful," said the president.

Was a Traffic Policeman

"You have seen me many time before, Mr. President," responded the soldier. "I used to be a traffic policeman at the Grand Central Station. Don't you think I look natural?"

The president laughed softly. It was probably the only merry moment he had had in the hospital.

Another strapping fellow gave his name as Private Wilson.

"I am proud to know that I have a namesake like you," said the president. "It is a very honorable name. I only tried to do it proud," responded the soldier.

One soldier had lost both legs by a shell. "I am thankful that they didn't get my arm," he said cheerfully. More than 6500 wounded Americans from the battles around Chateau

Thierry have passed through Neuilly hospital. The 1200 remaining are the most serious cases, whom miracles of modern surgery are rebuilding to resume their places in civil life, although some probably will never leave the hospital.

News of Interest to Women

Until Miss Jane A. Delano, director of the department of nursing, American Red Cross, returns from Europe where she is making a general survey, no more nurses will be recruited for Red Cross service in the United States.

A telegram to that effect was received at headquarters of the lake division before Miss Delano sailed and was transmitted to Miss August Condit, head of the local division. Nurses who went from Columbus to take three months' training at various army hospitals and cantonments in this country are being released as rapidly as possible.

Many nurses will be needed abroad for reconstruction and rehabilitation work, to act as visiting nurses in towns where the Red Cross has been fighting tuberculosis and other plagues. It is to estimate this number and to plan for the ones who are to stay that Miss Delano has gone abroad.

The annual New Year's dance will be held Thursday night, January the second, at the K. of P. Hall, and will be given by the University Club.

The number of college people home for the holidays and the visitors expected will augment the number attending and the dance promises to be the event of New Year's week.

At great effort Parker's Orchestra, with Parker himself, has been secured. Refreshments will be served.

The Junior Music Club held an open meeting at the studio of Miss Ethel Powell's last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mothers and friends were invited. The program was as follows:

Old Mother Hubbard, Jas. H. Rogers
Helen Riley
Eskimo Lullaby, Dorothy Gomore Blake

LONG TIME FARM LOANS AT 5 1/2 PER CENT. GREGG, PATTON & GREGG. 291 125

HEADQUARTERS OF THE YANKS

General Headquarters American Expeditionary Force, Chaumont, Haute Marne, France, November 20.

(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The date line reveals one of the interesting secrets of the Army in France, the location of the home of the Commander-in-Chief and the General Staff. Until a few days ago when the censorship rules were modified to meet the new conditions created by the armistice, Chaumont has never been permitted to be mentioned in connection with the American forces.

The exact whereabouts of the general headquarters of any force, allied or enemy, is never revealed during hostilities. The military reasons for this secrecy are obvious and in this war the airplane made it over more necessary, for Chaumont lies but a little flight from what were long the German lines.

It is and old and picturesque city, quiet and conservative beyond even French provincialism. It has water and gas and electric light, but no street railways and few places of amusement even in normal times. It lies in the center of an agricultural and grazing district, is quite a seat of education and historically very interesting, as indeed is every city of its age in France.

There are really two Chaumonts, the ancient town with its narrow, tortuous streets, is typical buildings with curious towers and buttresses and arches giving glimpses through half opened gates or iron grills of quaint gardens and quieter courts. Many of the streets are too narrow to permit the passage of wheeled vehicles and the big staff motor cars find difficulty in navigating the best of the old town streets.

Extending outward on the high plateau upon which the city is located is a newer and more modern Chaumont, a region of fine homes with extensive grounds and comfortable residences of the well-to-do and middle classes. Here the wide boulevards are tree lined and parked.

It is in this eastern part of the plateau that General Headquarters are located, occupying the French military post turned over to the Americans by the French. Its three great concrete barracks and numerous lesser buildings were renovated by the American staff, electric lights installed, paint and whitewash called into play and now in rooms where once the poilus barracks the great headquarters staff works. Every office is connected by telephone, the central station being operated by American girls.

CALL TO FARMERS

A conference of farmers will be held at Hotel Star, Columbus, Thursday, December 26th to consider advisability of a farmers organization in Ohio for defense of their rights and interests. Farmers should attend this meeting and not wait to be coaxed, for it will be determined here whether an efforts will be made to organize those who live on farms.

KNIFE IS USED IN BLOODY FIGHT ON GREGG STREET

As a result of a bloody encounter near the Christian Union Church on Gregg street, about ten o'clock Sunday night, Eliza Dowler, white, was slashed and stabbed a number of times by a knife said to have been in the hands of Herbert Underwood, and another young man by the name of Bryan also sustained a gash across the face.

The trouble is alleged to have started over a small sum of money which one man is said to have owed the other, and the affray speedily involved nearly a half dozen persons.

Dowler was stabbed twice in the back, one in the hip, one in the shoulder, slashed across the hand and his nose and face laid open by a stab. He was covered with blood before he could reach a physician and have his wounds dressed and sewed up. He left a trail of blood for several squares while hunting a physician.

Bryan is said to have been only slightly wounded.

The police investigated the affray and obtained several names of those involved. Up to Monday noon no warrants had been filed, but it was understood that warrants would be issued for all parties involved in the fight.

CHURCHES CELEBRATE WITH SERMON AND SONG

Great Union Christmas Service Comes as Climax to Christmas Celebrations of Unusual Interest.

Eulogizing Birth of The Christ Child, Singing of Carols and Presentation of Charming Cantatas.

While Christmas was observed in the city churches in sermon and song at the regular morning services, the big inspirational interest of pre-Christmas Sunday, culminated in the Union Service at Grace Church, Sunday night, when the rush and turmoil of every day life was forgotten as hundreds of voices sang in unison Christmas Carols, ancient and modern.

The music breathed the beautiful Christmas message—a message more wonderful than ever this year when the world is linked in a great humanitarian circle, and heralded the Christmas tide in Christmas carols and hymns, led by the fresh young voices of Glee Clubs and pupils of seventh and eighth grades.

The audience was magnificent, every portion of the large church filled, vestibules crowded and many turned away—people coming from the most remote parts of the county.

With the great audience and the sea of radiant young faces rising on the platform above, the white middies and skirts and bright red ties of the girls giving the Christmas note of color, the scene was one which impressed itself immemorably.

The chorus sang with splendid volume and expression under the finished direction of Miss Elizabeth Sheen.

Very beautiful and effective was the singing of the quartet, "Holy Night," by Miss Ada Woodward, Mrs. Arthur Burgett, Messrs. R. R. Kibler and Rankin Paul in the dome with the lights turned out while over head a luminous star shone with the brightness of the Star of Bethlehem.

The ministers of the city took part in the service, Rev. David M. Barre offering the prayer, Rev. Rejy reading the scriptures and Rev. McWilliams pronouncing the benediction.

Rev. G. E. Groves made a beautiful little talk on the Christmas theme and its distinctive interest this year. A generous offering was taken for the Belgian Relief.

CHRISTMAS CANTATAS

Included in the day's services were two Christmas Cantatas usually given in the evening.

The choir of the First Presbyterian church presented to a gratifying audience a cantata full of melodic charm, "Emmanuel"—Worthing.

Prefacing it in the introductory services were fine organ numbers by Mrs. B. F. Davis; a beautiful solo—Calm on the Listening Ear of Night—Hawley, admirably sung by Miss Roberta Stokesbury and an exquisite violin rendering of "Nazareth"—Gounod—by Miss Kessler.

Rev. J. L. McWilliams gave a happy Christmas greeting and read a Christmas letter sent to his church from overseas by Rev. Wm. Boynton Gage.

The minister outlined the story of the birth of Christ as found in the scriptures as the background for the numbers of the Cantata.

A very large choir rose to the demands of the Cantata splendidly, singing in fine harmony and with a finish and expression that was highly creditable to the efficiency of the choir director, Miss Ada Woodward.

Mrs. Arthur Burgett sang with exquisite tenderness the contralto solo, "Saw You Never in the Twilight" and Miss Woodward proved herself vocally sufficient in the very difficult high soprano solo, "O, Little Town of Bethlehem."

The incidental solo, "Low at the Cradle Throne We Bend," in the last triumphant chorus was perfectly sung by Mrs. Werter Shoop.

The warmth and beauty of the quartet, "Holy Night, Peaceful Night," sung by Mrs. Shoop, Mrs. Burgett, Messrs. Kibler and Paul, made it a marked number of the Cantata.

Mrs. Davis organist, did exceptionally fine work throughout the program.

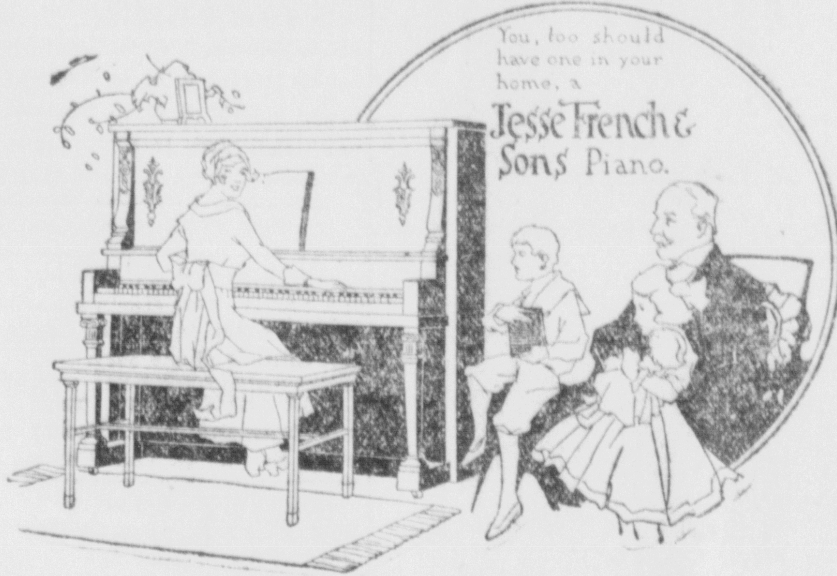

The "Adoration"—Nevin, a Cantata of most beautiful harmonies, was very well rendered, under the able direction of Miss Sheen, Sunday morning at Grace Church.

The choruses pulsed with joyous melody and the solos, chiefly taken by young singers, hushed the large assemblage to appreciative silence.

Mr. C. S. Haver's smooth and mellow bass voice was most effective in the solo "Behold a Virgin Shall Conceive"—Miss Dorothy Parrett, a very promising young soprano, sang "In Reverent Awe and Solemn State" while Richard Haynes revealed a tenor voice of very pleasing quality and unusual volume in the solo "And lo, the Angel of the Lord."

Musically the World's Greatest Instrument With a Fascinating New Feature

This superb instrument plays music—every manner of music—with a tonal beauty which is not mere musical imitation, but which is actual musical realism. The deeper tones—bass and baritone, 'cello, bass viol and tuba—are reproduced with a new and remarkable richness and "body." The high notes of Soprano, violin and flute, come forth from this wonderful instrument with the sweetness and purity of the original rendition.

Come in, see and hear them; you are welcome.

The Contralto solo, "Hushed at Length the Grace Song" was sung with much sweetness and finish by Miss Dorothy Rogers.

Miss Jessie Sunkle, whose soprano voice is unusually well developed and clear for a High School girl, sang a lovely Christmas solo.

Rev. Cherrington made an excellent short address, contrasting this Christmas with the Christmases of other years and elaborating upon the Christmas theme.

Miss Light contributed her usual good work in organ solos and accompaniment.

CLOUDS OF CROWS VISIT THIS COUNTY

Great flocks of crows, many of them containing many thousands of the noisy birds, have been visiting parts of Fayette county during the past few days, and on Sunday one of the great flocks was seen south of this city a few miles.

Apparently the crows are doing comparatively little damage at the present time, but nevertheless the farmers keep a sharp lookout for the mischievous birds.

It is believed that the extremely mild weather has drawn the birds to this part of Ohio, although many of them remain in this part of the country throughout the winter.

Some reports indicate that the big flocks of the birds are heading southward, and point to the fact as an indication that colder weather may be expected any time.

INFANT SON DIES

It is with the deepest sympathy and regret that friends are learning of the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Heath Vining (nee Florence Jones) at the Hodson Hospital at half past two o'clock Monday afternoon, aged one week and one day.

The baby was christened by Rev. David H. Barr Monday morning and given the name of his two grandfathers, Samuel Neil Vining.

Brief services will be held Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the Washington Mortuary, where the little one will be placed, awaiting interment later.

EXPECTING EARLY DISCHARGE FROM FURTHER SERVICE

Corporal Backenstoe Makes Light of Wounds and Expects to Return to Hospital and be Discharged in Near Future

Corporal Hughey Backenstoe, recently returned from France and who is spending a few days at the home of his mother, Mrs. Maude Welmer, is the first Fayette county man who has returned who is wearing a gold wound stripe on his right sleeve and two gold service stripes on his left sleeve, denoting one year of service abroad.

Corporal Backenstoe, who was wounded by shrapnel on July 29th while M Company was on the Ourcq river engaged in heavy fighting, declares that he was not severely wounded, and expects soon to return to West Baden, Indiana, where a government military hospital is located, and anticipates early discharge from service, having been recommended in September by the Disability Board, for return to the States and because of his physical condition.

Corporal Backenstoe makes light of his wounds and the part he has played in the great war, like most of the returning soldiers. Following some little time spent in a hospital after being wounded, Corp. Backenstoe rejoined his company, but a few days later became ill and was returned to a hospital later being ordered back to the States for physical disability.

Corporal Backenstoe saw 119 days services on the Lorraine front, and was in the fighting on the Champagne front from July 14 to 18th, then being transferred to the Chateau Thierry front and fought while the Germans were being crushed out of the Marne salient. It was on the Ourcq river that he was wounded, and in this same community M Company suffered severely.

On July 28 Corporal Backenstoe saw Wesley Sword of this city instantly killed by a German bullet through his heart while he was endeavoring to remove Glenn Whaley, wounded from the field. Whaley later died of wounds. This occurred at Sergy.

LAST LETTER BY M COMPANY BOY KILLED BY HUNS

This brave young soldier who enlisted in Company M, before attaining age, was killed in action November 7th four days before the signing of the Armistice. This letter being the last written by him.

Somewhere in France,
October 30, 1918

Mr. Bert Leach,
Dear Friend:—

This leaves me in the best of health and enjoying myself. We sure have been busy the past few weeks. That is the reason I haven't written. Where we are located now would be a weeks walk to the nearest house.

Certainly wish I was there to help you. I rather think when I enlisted in the army I bit off a bigger piece than I could chew. But am sure ready to take a soft shot at the Germans. I got a chance once. Maybe I can tell you about it sometime. But just now I can't. But you bet when they are shooting at me I am not running, but the reason I wasn't that time I was stuck in the mud.

I forgot to feel my hair to know whether it was sticking straight up. Ha. Ha.

The boys said when we first landed over here we would be home by Christmas. I told them they were dreaming, and I guess they think so by now.

We are in a dugout. Have some boards, tarred paper, dirt, and tin roofing on it, straw for our beds and no cover, but we keep warm and sleep good.

I hear that some of the boys around there have enlisted in the coast artillery. I think they are much safer than we. They stay far behind the lines all the time. The doughboys do all the fighting and dodging the cannonballs.

We wear steel hats so they can't knock us out of the trenches, but very often they do not good.

But we are here and going to do our bit. I think I have done my share now, but Uncle Sam can't see it that way. Well I must close for the present. Will write again soon.

Remember me to all,
CHAS. A. LONES
Co. M, 166th Inf.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Somewhere in France,
November 24, 1918.

Dear Old Dad:

Hope everything is as good with you as it is with me. Every soldier in the A. E. F. is to write to Dad today and am making sure that mine is not left behind. You might consider this your Xmas Gift from me as it will most likely be the only one I can send. The "Stars and Stripes" sets this day apart as Fathers' Day just the same as Mothers' Day. I can assure you that I am the best ever and only hope I can be at home with you before long, now that every thing is all finished, home is upper most in my mind.

I have done some real work here in France and am now just waiting for a chance to do some real work in the good old U. S. A. It will be only eight more days until I will be entitled to wear one service stripe, but looking back it seems that I should have three or four on my arm by this time it really seems that long.

You know when I left home I expected to be back on pass in a short time, but I never got the chance so have put in a good many months waiting for a chance to get that pass and here's hoping it's not this long or one third this long again.

Your Loving Son,
CORP. C. D. COLE.

MAD DOG SCARE AROUND LEESBURG

As result of the appearance of the rabies in and near Leesburg recently, there is a widespread scare in that vicinity at the present time, apparently not without good reason, two persons, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Anders, having been bitten by their dog after it contracted the rabies from a stray canine which had passed the Anders home a few days previously and attacked the Anders' dog.

Mr. and Mrs. Anders are now taking the Pasteur treatment to prevent the rabies and all stray dogs in the Leesburg neighborhood are being killed and others muzzled to prevent a spread of the dread malady. Quite a number of dogs in the community were attacked and bitten by the rabid animal which bit the Anders dog.

OLD GLORY IS VERY POPULAR IN ENGLAND

(By Associated Press)

London, Dec. 23.—If there is not friendly feeling toward the United States in England, the flags of London speak untruthfully. There are millions of flags. Where all of them come from is a mystery. They simply appeared from everywhere and nowhere, like a barrage of color on the day when the armistice was signed. No coronation or royal jubilee has seen such a marvel of cloth.

Hardly a house, however small and humble, in the whole more than twenty miles radius of the largest city in the world was without its decorations. And the Stars and Stripes were more conspicuous than any flag except the Union Jack.

Wherever two flags hung together, the American emblem was one of them.

The French flag ranked next, but only a respectable third.

Walking through the streets, the American colors saluted the eye everywhere. Big ones, large enough to hide an ordinary house, hung in front of hotels, department stores, and factories.

Very many people, of the hundreds of thousands who tied flags to their hats and coats and umbrellas, even to their dogs, sported the Stars and Stripes.

They were particularly popular with the girls, but workmen, old ladies and British soldiers wore them. This seems to spell appreciation.

Some of the sadder newspapers which specialize in deploring, mourning bitterly over the armistice celebration in Trafalgar Square on November 12, "Property was Destroyed." This was the burden of the plaint. It was true.

Revelers, chiefly Australian and Canadian soldiers, with a sprinkling of British and a few American accomplices built a bonfire. They used whatever came to hand. Huge signboards around the Nelson Monument appealing to citizens to buy war bonds were the first to feed the flames. Then a wooden hut, the property of the Y. M. C. A., was dragged to the pyre. Next came half a dozen German cannons, camouflaged with green purple, and yellow, rushed up with shoutings from St. James Park close by.

There were many policemen about but they were helpless. The soldiers picked them up and thrust them on the scene. Then the fire engines came out and turned streams of water on the blaze. The Australians turned the hose on the astonished firemen and swept them off their feet with their own ammunition.
